Permit one who has taken considerable interest in the business of dairying in this State, to entreat you by all means to sustain your cheese factories and your private dairies. Don't pay any attention to those who are saying "I knew you would overdo the business." Don't sell your shares at a discount; the dairying business is not overdone! Dairy products have not declined as much in price in our markets as other farm products have, by twenty-five per cent. For instance, potatoes, beans and the clip of wool this year will probably decline some in price from what it was last year. Associated dairying in Maine, notwithstanding the decline in the price of dairy products. It is a success. There is a certain class of the caterpillar the ensuing summer, I shall be disappointed. Hence I have been seeking for a better way. To try the power of kerosene oil on the eggs, I took a twig with two rings of eggs on it, one I dipped in the oil, the other not. I have never known these bunches of eggs so plentiful on the apple trees as I have found them the past winter—finding as many as forty different nests on a small tree. I have also found abundance of them on the wild cherry trees in the woods, and on eim shade trees; and if our trees do not suffer from the depreda-tions of the caterpillar the applies appropria

Prolific Sheep.

I do not claim to have the "Centennial sheep," but think I have a very prolific one. The 16th of last April she dropped three lambs and raised them herself. The 10th of this month (April) she dropped a pair and they are doing finely. She is six years old and is raising her twelfth lamb and has never lost one. List the manuscript from my pen from which extracts appeared in the FARMER of April 15th, in regard to plowing in green crops no mention is made of clover and corn, but buckwheat only, which I considered of much the least value as a fertilizer, and which I never used unless lack of time for growing the others made it necessary. It is of little consequence to be sure, but I thought it might be encouraging to some young farmers to know that within the memory of men now living such abundant wheat crops had been grown in Maine, that after transporting it more than a hundred miles without the aid of steam by land or water, it was "a drug in the market" and exchanged for other articles at 75cts, per bushel. Possibly by good cultivation and perseverance the like crops may be obtained again, but probably not reduced to the same price. [Through inadvertence, the words "corn and clover" were somehow stricken from the previous letter of our esteemed correspondent, and thereby destroyed the force of his appeal—a matter we much regret—ED.]

The Centaur Liniments are the best selling medicines we have ever had. The demard is very great for it, and we cannot afford to be without it.

For H. HISEY & SON."

"JEFFERSON, Mo., Nov. 10, 1873.

Some time ago I was shipping horses to St. Louis. I got one badly crippled in the car, and with great difficulty I got him to the stable. The stable keeper gave me a bottle of Centaur Liniment, which I used with such success that in two days the horse was active and nearly well. I have been a veterinary surgeon for thirty years, but your liniment beats anything I ever used.
